Are You More Ethical Than A 4th Grader?
Kelly L. Faglioni, Partner, Hunton & Williams

So, you think you are more ethical than a 4th grader? In this one-hour ethics program, you will hear from some whose minds have not yet been burdened by deep knowledge of the professional rules. Get their youthful perspective on "right" and "wrong" and see how it compares to the expectations of lawyers under professional rules on ethics issues associated with Social Media.

Today's world tempts lawyers to investigate and contact people through social and other electronic media as well as to blog, comment, or text about your work and those people you work with or against. Regardless of how today's youth see "right" and "wrong" in using technology and social media, lawyers need to exercise caution before diving in and behaving like everyone else.
